Weston Love helps his clients structure, negotiate and close complex transactions, including mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures and growth equity investments, to generate the maximum possible value for his clients. With a straightforward, solution-focused approach, Weston works to ensure that nothing falls through the cracks during the transaction process.

A background of broad knowledge across several industries

Weston regularly manages the efforts of multidisciplinary teams across numerous organizations as he helps his clients navigate the challenges that stand between them and a successful closing. In each transaction, Weston makes his client's interests his own and he works diligently to ensure that such interests are prioritized and protected.

Recognizing that every transaction poses unique challenges, Weston analyzes and addresses issues proactively and promptly to minimize the likelihood that such issues will cause closing delays or otherwise interfere with the achievement of his clients' goals (both short-term and long-term).

Whether drafting or negotiating principal transaction documents in a platform acquisition or strategizing about vital provisions in a joint venture agreement, Weston never loses sight of his clients' objectives.

Weston has a strong track record of providing excellent client service across a broad spectrum of industries, having negotiated and closed critical transactions in the pharmaceutical, health sciences, ophthalmology, radiology, anesthesiology, veterinary medicine, food and beverage, software and other industries.

Weston's clients include private equity companies, family offices, portfolio companies, independent sponsors, strategic acquirers, physician groups and private business owners.
